Murray resident Glenn Fritts, formerly of Crittenden County, has been named vice president/lending officer at Farmers Bank & Trust Co. in Princeton. Fritts has experience in commercial and retail lending, including the past seven years in western Kentucky, primarily Graves and Marshall counties. He holds a degree in finance from Murray State University. He is a member of several civic and community organizations and served on the Graves Growth Alliance board. Fritts and his wife, Aleisha, and two children are relocating to Princeton.

Judy A. Calhoun is the new executive director of McCracken County Community Career Endowment Inc. Calhoun has 18 years' experience in research associated with mental health and developmental disabilities. She has served as coordinator for state and community programs and recently served as volunteer facilitator for the local Family Court's Families in Transition program. She is a graduate of the University of Kentucky. MCCCE is dedicated to developing a diverse and qualified job candidate pool to enhance the local economy.
